

Laura Daniel Bio

For the past couple of years I have been exploring different mediums in the art and craft world. I work with different textile. I work with wool felt, clay, grapevine, paper, wood, and floral to name a few. I have found many different craft projects that I enjoy doing and I am always eager to learn more. I have graduated from Park University with a bachelor's of science in social psychology. I also studied early childhood education. I have taken couple courses in art. I have explored pottery and different mediums of painting. I have a sweet tooth that led me to take courses in cake decorating. One the most interesting courses I have taken was a course on creating Ukrainian pysanky eggs.

My love and passion to create made me want to create my own business Lucky Elephant Creations. I have done craft fairs for a couple of years now along with selling some of my items at local stores. This past year I participated with the Sculptures on the Square with three doors. I have also entered in a couple art shows and the fair ranking first place with a couple of my pieces.

I am excited to teach what I am passionate about. I love to help others create.

If you are interested in seeing more of my work you can find it on my Facebook page Lucky Elephant Creations <http://www.facebook.com/pages/Lucky-Elephant-Creations/180708677374>